SILENCE IS CONSENT - LET YOUR VOICE BE HEARD

Note: Articles are shortened/paraphrased. Go to websites to read entire article.

In a quote attributed to Lord Acton, power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely.

http://constitutioncenter.org/ncc\_edu\_A\_Republic\_If\_You\_Can\_Keep\_It.aspx There is a story, often told, that upon exiting the Constitutional Convention Benjamin Franklin was approached by a group of citizens asking what sort of government the delegates had created. His answer was: "A republic, if you can keep it." The brevity of that response should not cause us to under-value its essential meaning: democratic republics are not merely founded upon the consent of the people, they are also absolutely dependent upon the active and informed involvement of the people for their continued good health.

We thank the many people and organizations in Rhode Island that represent American citizens and our form of government in a fight that should never happen—Americans against Americans, inside our country. The United States of America gives us a voice in our government, and we are a free people with individual rights, freedoms, and privileges. This is exactly what the people in other nations yearn for and why America has always been a leader and an example for the rest of the world. So, what has changed?

The lust for power—absolute power—is coming on strong. We were warned, "if you can keep it," and the only way out now is to go back to the "essential meaning" (above): that democratic republics are not merely founded upon the consent of the people, they are also absolutely dependent upon the active and informed involvement of the people for their continued good health. That is why those many people and organizations in Rhode Island and across our country are keeping watch on local and federal government and delivering the message of American citizens. BUT—you have to do your part and you have to know who you are dealing with.

America is about individual freedoms—each person has the equal opportunity to achieve. The various demonstrations against our country from the inside are for "social" and "economic" justice (government-provided jobs, education, housing, medical, and other assistance, which means American tax dollars)--for groups—not individuals. Their goal is a "guarantee" for the groups they form based on ethnicity, race, sexual-orientation, income, religion, and many other criteria—without anyone earning anything through individual freedoms and opportunity. Many, many of the people involved in these demonstrations have no idea of what will happen if they are successful—BUT the people behind these movements know exactly what will happen. America will be destroyed.

The "occupy" movements here, around the country, and in foreign countries may have started with "the people," but they are supported and infiltrated by other, stronger, more malicious groups who don't care one bit about "the people." It's only the power they're after. And the method is always the same. A little bit here, a little bit there, until they have it all. They will use any group they can get and then get rid of them and move on when they gain enough power. See Insert "Power by Percentage of Population."

The "occupy" movement, illegal immigration, policy changes, executive orders, more and more regulations, are all tools for the President's promise to "fundamentally change America." He also promised transparency, but the only transparency is his blatant disregard for our country and American citizens—undermining, overwhelming and destroying America.

The Department of Justice decides what laws they want to enforce and restricts and undermines law enforcement agencies. The “occupy” demonstrations, supposedly peaceful, never intended to leave where they are without confrontations with law enforcement. They will refuse to leave and, when ushered away, they will resist and scream police brutality. If they can stay, they win. If a “court ruling” says they have to leave, they resist, blame law enforcement, and win again. They use this as their example that laws do not mean anything and law enforcement personnel do not have any power to enforce the laws and cannot be trusted. This serves yet another purpose—to discourage anyone from wanting to be part of a law enforcement agency. Without laws and personnel to enforce those laws, we will no longer be a civil society. When law enforcement has to become involved in a situation, it has to be understood that law enforcement is in charge, and all resistance stops. The situation will escalate only if the protesters want it to—for their own purposes.

There are many, many things going on—to keep you distracted and unsettled. They go quiet for a while, but they are there and will come back with a vengeance. Keep your focus.

<http://news.providencejournal.com/breaking-news/2011/10/chafee-defends.html> Governor Chafee is still defending the “policy change” made by the RI Board of Governors for Higher Education (RIBGHE) to give illegal aliens the in-state tuition rate at RI public colleges, “In this case, I would argue that tuition decisions should be made in the Board of Governors; that’s where they are always made and that’s the best place for them to be made. [T]he legislature is the end around the process.” He was responding to a survey done by the Providence Journal of General Assembly members on the issue of in-state tuition. The governor is also “still considering creating a state-issued driving license or permit for illegal immigrants . . .” A little bit here, a little bit there, until they have it all. This “policy” is just the beginning of more and more benefits for illegal aliens at the expense of American citizens—through our tax dollars, our economy, our jobs, our culture, and our way of life. The citizens of Rhode Island can be absolutely sure the issues of in-state tuition and drivers’ permits for illegal aliens will be addressed in the General Assembly in January 2012 with new legislation to prohibit these activities.

<http://news.providencejournal.com/breaking-news/2011/10/rally-draws-500-to-steps-of-st.html> A news conference and rally organized by six state lawmakers and headed up by Rep. Doreen Costa, drew about 500 people to the State House on October 5 to protest Governor Chafee's support for in-state tuition and possible drivers’ permits for illegal aliens. John DePetro, WPRO morning talk show host, emceed the event. RIILE’s Executive Director, Terry Gorman, spoke and was interrupted by about a dozen counter-protesters, dressed as clowns, who gathered behind and heckled the speakers on the steps. <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=P8PjK9bwFd0> Gov. October 31, The Providence Journal, “R.I. public colleges at near-record enrollments” Hard economic times are driving students to the less expensive Community College of Rhode Island (CCRI), which has its second highest enrollment in the history of the school—17,893. Also with second highest enrollments, URI has 16,562 (13,574 undergrads) and RIC has 8,238 (7,488 undergrads). How will the governor’s in-state tuition for illegal aliens affect in-state and out-of-state American citizen students?

http://www.insidebayarea.com/news/ci\_19223845 California employers embrace E-Verify. Illegal aliens will have a harder time securing a job as more Bay Area employers screen new hires through an immigration records check. More than 26,000 employers in the state have signed up for the federal E-Verify program that checks the immigration status of employees—including corporate giants Apple (APL) and Chevron, organic-friendly grocer Berkeley Bowl, and the non-profit Kaiser Permanente health care organization. Even though using E-Verify is voluntary, the number of California job sites using it increased by 37% to more than 90,000 from a year ago, according to government records. California now has more job sites using the electronic verification system than any other state. Proponents say enacting E-Verify everywhere could deter illegal immigration more effectively than any border wall by denying all jobs to illegal immigrants. Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney has made mandatory E-Verify a key talking point, and the House Judiciary Committee has already approved the Legal Workforce Act that would make E-Verify mandatory and replace I-9 forms. How E-Verify Works, Who uses E-Verify, and a listing of States with the Most Job Sites Using E-Verify are answered at the web site for this article (above).

For a list of every California employer with at least five employees signed up for E-Verify, go to www.insidebayarea.com or www.contracostatimes.com. Not included on the list are out-of-state E-Verify users, such as Walmart, that employ workers in California. As of Oct. 22, there were 297,433 employers nationwide using E-Verify, representing 968,981 job sites. Of those, 26,125 employers and 90,318 job sites are in California. According to a government database, a partial listing of Bay Area employers that use E-Verify include: The Gap, Ross Dress for Less, Williams-Sonoma, Cost Plus, UC Berkeley, Stanford University, Oakland Unified School District, Morgan Hill Unified School District, Facebook, Apple, Oracle, Intel, Hewlett-Packard, Chipotle Mexican Grill, Black Angus Steakhouse, Baskin-Robbins, Sizzler USA.

<http://www.examiner.com/immigration-in-san-francisco/sonoma-co-is-the-latest-sanctuary-county-california> Sonoma County California recently added to its status as a sanctuary for illegal aliens. The Sonoma County Sheriff's Department and Santa Rosa police are joining other law enforcement agencies in the county and the state in accepting the bogus Mexican ID card--the Matricula Consular card. This is part of what ICE reported on these cards in their TRIPWIRE newsletter in 2003: The Matricula Consular is an identification card issued to citizens of Mexico residing in other countries, whether or not they are legally in that country, to include the United States. In practice, ICE has found that this card is most often carried by individuals who do not have lawful status in the U.S. Further, the U.S. Department of Justice has concluded that the matricula is not a reliable form of identification. No major bank in Mexico lists the card among identification it accepts, and only 10 of Mexico's 32 states and districts recognize the card as a valid identification document. The inherent danger in the use of such cards is that in matters of national security, identification verification and other crucial issues, the U.S. Government will be reliant on the scrutiny and security of foreign governments. A little bit here, a little bit there, until they have it all.

<http://www.humanevents.com/article.php?id=46231> The Cash-for-Visas program. Congress is pushing to expand a fraud-riddled investor program—set to expire in 2012--that puts U.S. citizenship up for sale to the highest foreign business bidders. Two years after "investing" $500,000 to $1 million in new commercial enterprises or troubled businesses in the U.S., 10,000 foreign investors, their spouses and their children will all receive permanent resident status in our country, which will allow them to contribute to U.S. political campaigns and also expedites their "citizenship." This new legislation would not only save this bogus program but it would also create a second program making entry into the U.S. easier and provide "start-up visas" for foreign entrepreneurs—granting them unconditional permanent resident status if they create a government-determined number of jobs. So, where is American taxpayer money really going—in Rhode Island and in our country? Remember, illegal aliens will still get FREE health care whether or not ObamaCare is in effect. And, illegal aliens are considered "minorities" and "low-income." A little bit here, a little bit there, until they have it all.

<http://chronicle.com/blogs/innovations/a-veto-for-racial-preferences/30553> A Veto for Racial Preferences, October 12, 2011, Peter Wood. In 1996 California voters passed Proposition 209 to prohibit racial and ethnic preferences for admission to California's public colleges and universities. Proposition 209 amended California's state Constitution to read: The state shall not discriminate against, or grant preferential treatment to, any individual or group on the basis of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in the operation of public employment, public education, or public contracting. California Bill SB 185 would have restored those racial and ethnic preferences, but, surprisingly, Governor Jerry Brown vetoed that bill. "I wholeheartedly agree with the goal of this legislation." But he finds himself unable to sign it because, "Our constitutional system of separation of powers requires that the courts—not the Legislature—determine the limits of Proposition 209." The National Association of Scholars played a key role in promoting the original Proposition 209 and has worked with Ward Connerly, who heads the American Civil Rights Institute (see site below), to replicate the success of Proposition 209 in other states, including Washington, Michigan, Nebraska, and Arizona.

It is time for all Americans, including black Americans, to reject the "race matters" mentality that so many people and institutions in our country have adopted. We must focus on our commonalities as Americans, rather than always relating to one another on the basis of race, ethnicity or gender.

See who got $1.37 billion for another risky solar plant. President Obama's nominee for Commerce Secretary, John Bryson, was chairman of the board of BrightSource Energy that recently received a $1.37 billion federal loan guarantee--the largest the Department of Energy has ever given for a solar power project--to build an expensive California desert solar plant known as the Ivanpah Solar Electric Generating System. Bryson co-founded an environmental activist group, Natural Resources Defense Council, that is a member and funder of the controversial Apollo Alliance, which includes some very interesting people with very interesting connections. Read the entire article at above site.
